

Winter 2022

Dear Class of 2013,

In less than eight months, our class will have its 10-year reunion at the 2023 Big Bash. We hope to triple our class's turnout from our 5-year reunion. Please consider this the first of many reminders and gentle nudges about registering and attending the 2023 Big Bash. The three-day event will run between June 2nd and 4th and include many fun activities and chances to socialize. During the 5-year reunion, the college offered lodging in Wolcott and Morris Halls for out-of-state attendees. We anticipate similar lodging opportunities for our 10-year reunion.

Registration for the event will open in early 2023. Please spread the word far and wide. We hope to see as many members of the Class of 2013 there as possible.

– The Wabash wrestling team continued its amazing season by winning a triangular dual meet against both Wisconsin-Stevens Point and Luther College Norse. Many of the triumphant wrestlers hail from the Freshman and Sophomore classes. Currently, the Little Giants wrestling teams ranks eighth among all DIII wrestling teams.

– Two Little Giants broke school records at the first indoor track & field meet of the season. Haiden Diemer-McKinney and Will Newby set school records in the 600-meter run and the 60-yard dash, respectively. Wabash finished second out of 11 teams at the meet.

– With the end of football season, Wabash experienced a down (the loss of the Monon Bell) and an up. Wabash's quarterback, Liam Thompson, earned First Team All-NCAC honors and was named the 2022 NCAC Football Offensive Player of the Year. We eagerly await this junior's return to the gridiron next fall. Some Little Giant Wabash held its 54th annual Christmas Festival of Music and Readings on December 7th in the Pioneer Chapel.

– Wabash College stepped into the future by launching a new application (or as the kids call it, an app). The Wabash College Video Network lets you stream the best of Wabash sports and events from the comfort of your living room or the convenience of your phone. The app is available through Apple TV, Android TV, Amazon Fire TV, and Roku for television and for mobile on Apple, Android, and Amazon Fire tablet.
